EASTERN DATES TO JULY 14

Press Comments on the Riot

CHICAGO July 13 —The Tribune this morning makes bitter comments on the New York riot

The general expression of opinion is that Gov Hoffman's course was the only one consistent with his duty as Chief Magistrate of the State

The New York Tribune accuses Gov Hoffman as well as Mayor Hall, and says upon his (Hoffman's) head is the guilt for yesterday's massacre because he truckled to the mob and waited to be forced by public opinion into the performance of his sworn duty

The Times denounces Mayor Hall in violent terms as a traitor and a coward.

General Details of the Affair

NEW YORK July 13 —At the morgue this morning the crowd was allowed to pass around the bodies of those killed in the riot yesterday to see if they could identify any of the dead as their friends. About 7,000 people must have passed before 12 o'clock

Of the wounded brought to Bellevue Hospital last night four died this morning

All parts of the city have been quiet to day The police do not apprehend any further disturbance

The conduct of the police and military is highly praised by all respectable citizens while the killing of some innocent persons by the fire of the troops is generally regretted. No blame is attached to the latter on account of an occurence which from the nature of the case was perhaps unavoidable

The 84th had orders to fire before a piece was discharged. One who witnessed the whole affair stated that Capt Douglas was knocked down with a brick and when he recovered he was distinctly heard to give the order to fire, which resulted in terrible slaughter. His men had been hit and stoned along the route without retaliation until command was given them, and then, and only then, our informant affirms, the first shot was fired. Immediately the 6th also received similar directions and the fusilade began. Our informant asserted that his statement was correct in every particular, and wholly exonerates the men from the charge of opening fire on their own account

The action of Gov Hoffman in issuing his proclamation continues to be bitterly denounced among the Irish some of whom assert that he will never live to see another Orangemen's procession

No police were killed. The report that one was shot dead is incorrect

This morning the arrested rioters were examined, each case separately, and where the party was found to have committed no overt act and no weapon was found on his person he was discharged. If otherwise he was committed.

Deaths of wounded continue to occur. About twenty per cent of the wounded cannot recover. A jury was empannelled and removed the bodies but no inquest will be held until the last of this or beginning of next week

Murder of a Woman and Girl by a Rioter

NEW YORK July 13 —Following is a correct account of the killing of a woman and little girl supposed to have been Mrs York and her daughter as given by an eye witness: "I was standing looking at the procession and crowd and saw a woman waving a handkerchief to the Orangemen. I thought she was very imprudent or had more courage than women generally have. Just at that moment while she was in the act of waving her handkerchief, a ruffian stepped up to her and placing the muzzle of his pistol to her ear fired. She fell dead. He then turned around and deliberately cocking his pistol fired a bullet into the little girl and she fell. I think the little girl must have been twelve or thirteen years of age"

Comments by the Tribune

NEW YORK June 13 —The Tribune to morrow will have an editorial condemning arrangements of the Police Commissioners but praising the behavior of the men as heroic. The same paper exonerates entirely the 9th Regiment from blame for firing on the mob at Twenty fourth street and says it is clear from the evidence thus far collected that if the troops in their unnecessary excitement had not fired when they did it surely would have been necessary to order a volley soon, the whole line, when of course, the destruction of life would have been much greater than it was

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13 —Weather warm and fine.

The steamer Colorado from Panama, via Acapulco and Mazatlan arrived this morning bringing the following way passengers: Gen Worrell, Miss Maggie Connell, W Henning, Mrs J C Cunningham and daughter, Thos Geddes and wife, B Lamar, E A Frazer, Miss Bozman, Miss Gardner, Miss Matilda J Butler, Mrs S Dole, Miss Julia Laurty, A Beute and wife, P T Cunningham, B E Dager, C Bramba, L Morales, N Ravilotto, Mr Hend Dagunda, Vidusola and 2 children, J Canaceca and wife, F Sayer, Wm Lamphar and wife, W L Haber and family, M Noe, J Noe wife and child, C Garxola, J Hill, C Yusgo, J Kelly and child, H Jonkleman and 200 in the steerage. She brought 108 more miserable victims of the Lower California Co from Magdalena Bay. They tell the same story as their predecessors. They were not paid for their work, exposed to all hardships of life in a desert country. They were called upon to sign a statement that they came out to Lower California as emigrants under the auspices of the Lower California Company, and then shipped off to San Francisco. They say there are about fifty more, including several women, left on the peninsula, all anxious to get away and determined to leave the first opportunity. They have been standing around the office of the Lower California Co on California street all the morning, in the hope to interview some responsible party connected with the company but all such keep prudently invisible. The last lot are mostly young able bodied men mostly foreigners

Money Order Business with England

WASHINGTON July 13 —The Post Master General to day received from the General Postoffice at London formal articles of a convention negotiated by Dr McDonald of the Postoffice Department for establishing postal money orders between the United States and Great Britain. The Convention was duly executed on the part of the latter and now only awaits proper ratification here. Orders are to commence the 1st of October. The limit for single orders is $50 and other details will be duly published

Boutwell and Pleasanton

A Washington dispatch of the 30th ult furnishes this

It is stated that when yesterday Commissioner Pleasanton represented to the President the differences between Secretary Boutwell and himself and stated his own view of the law and practice in connection with the administration of the affairs of the Internal Revenue Bureau the President said rather than directly interpose in the matter he preferred that these gentlemen being his personal friends should come together and adjust their differences. He also advised Commissioner Pleasanton at the same time often to call upon Secretary Boutwell with that intention. Mr Pleasanton did so and had with the Secretary a long interview. The Secretary stated during the conversation that the country held him responsible for all moneys disbursed by the Treasury Department, therefore every outlay for the payment of money should be made under his direction and with his approval, and he insisted also in solving the credit and character of the Department should be upheld in order to collect the revenue it was proper that this power and authority should be in the hands of the Secretary in view of his responsibility. Commissioner Pleasanton spoke of his own duties and responsibilities under the law and the powers pertaining to his office, denying the right of the Secretary to hear appeals from his decisions as under the law the remedy lay in the Courts, and replying to the Secretary's premises

CURRENT NOTES

Rossetti contributes a highly eulogistic review of Miller, the Oregon poet to the Academy, an English periodical

The Executive Committee of the Boston Peace Jubilee of 1869 have agreed upon a plan for an International Peace Jubilee to be held at Boston next June

The Acting Secretary of the Treasury decides that vessels navigating Great Salt Lake are not required to be documented the lake having no outlet to any navigable waters.

The Controller of Georgia reports that the State last year increased more in the value of its property than in any previous year in its history. This increase is estimated at $20 000 000

The trade of New York with Mexico, although not large at present, is destined to become much more important in the future. During the last three years there has been a steady traffic which has proved a reliable source of profit to those interested, although no enormous fortunes have been accumulated

A Canadian Pacific Railway

[From the St Paul Press]

A party of Canadian engineers are now in this city on their way to Fort Garry to institute the long talked of survey of a Canadian Pacific Railroad, making Fort Garry the point of departure and running westward. A Pacific railway from Fort Garry to Vancouver's Island, connecting with the St Paul and Pacific branch of the Northern Pacific and Pembina, and having its eastern outlet through Minnesota, is an eminently practicable and promising scheme, both as to route and gradients, and to the elements of traffic and sustentation along its route. And this is the only part of the Canadian scheme of an exclusively Canadian Pacific Railway which is practicable. The attempt of the Canadian Government to find a feasible route north of Lake Superior, have not only resulted in demonstrating both the engineering impracticability of the route through some eight hundred miles of barren rock and swamp but the utterly worthless and uninhabitable character of the immense region north of Lake Superior, which separates Canada from Manitoba

The result of the survey made last year show that from James Bay down to Lake Huron and from the Winnepeg region to Canada West the country north of Lake Superior is so broken and abrupt as to be next to impassable and that the cost would be far beyond the utmost possible results to be hoped for in the way of through business while the country is without resources which could be developed into the elements of way traffic. Thus the inexorable decree of nature have dispelled the dream of a Canadian high way across the continent, and pronounced an eternal divorce between Canada and Western British America. A railway such as is now contemplated, running from Fort Garry to the Pacific would form simply a northern arm to the Northern Pacific, and, indeed, it is impossible to build any railroads through that country which will not, from the necessity of the case be offshoots of and dependent upon the commercial system of Minnesota. The geographical affinities of that region and Minnesota are so intimate and inseparable that our railroad system must inevitably absorb the whole commerce of the British Northwest, and the whole region must ultimately be absorbed in our political system. When the Northern Pacific Railroad crosses the Red river it taps eighteen hundred miles of river navigation, extending through the Saskatchewan valley. Within two or three years at farthest a branch of that road will run to Pembina and open through Minnesota the only practicable gateway of trade between Canada and Manitoba

A Tempest in Mormondom

Advices from Salt Lake, dated June 30th, gives the following

The Tribune of to morrow will contain a proclamation of Hon George A Black Secretary and Acting Governor forbidding all musters, parties or gatherings of the militia of Utah or of armed persons within the Territory except by the Governor's orders or by order of the United States Marshal in case a posse comitatus is required to enforce the order of the Court. This proclamation has been issued in view of certain orders of Daniel H Wells, calling himself Lieutenant General an office not recognized by the Government which orders out three companies of infantry one of artillery and one of cavalry, ostensibly to participate in the Mormon procession on the Fourth of July. Wells usurps power in ordering out the militia since Gov Shaffer appointed General Connor commander of the militia and the assembling of troops is in direct violation of the order of Gov Shaffer which has never been countermanded. The attempt is made in order to maintain the organization of the Nauvoo Legion outside of control of the Governor of the Territory. Mr Wells is a Lieutenant General of this Legion but pretends to order out the troops as Lieutenant General of the militia. H B Clawson who signs the order as Adjutant General is not recognized by the Government. He dates his order from the Adjutant General's office of Utah Territory. Gov Shaffer appointed Col Johns Adjutant General and he alone can execute the duties of the office. It is generally believed the Mormons will not attempt to carry out their scheme in the face of this proclamation. If they do the laws will be enforced and trouble may ensue. The Mormon press furiously assault Gov Woods for representing to the President that they were engaged with the California Nevada ring in attempting to remove the Judiciary and who on this stand ing between them and the line. They profess to be tolerably well satisfied with the Judge though they are eternally abusing and vilifying them. There is very general satisfaction at the stand taken by President Grant concerning the Judiciary. Their removal just now, on the demands of a corrupt and unscrupulous ring, would be extremely detrimental to the best interests of the country, and would seriously weaken the authority of the Government. Miscellaneous News

WASHINGTON, July 14 —It is reported that four members of the Civil Service Commission before leaving this city yesterday, drew from the Treasury each five hundred dollars as payment for their services thus far. This is at the rate of fifty dollars a day

The entire amount of the 5 20 loan of the 1862 now outstanding is about $490 000 000. While it is true that various suggestions and propositions have been made for its absorption nothing has been determined by the Secretary of the Treasury. It can now be positively stated on official authority, that the new loan has not been withdrawn from market

An order will soon be issued from the War Department announcing that no more applications for discharge of private soldiers will be entertained, as the army has been reduced to 30 000 men in accordance with the recent act of Congress

Nebraska Constitutional Convention

OMAHA, July 13 —The Constitutional Convention in session at Lincoln is making fair progress. No doubt that female suffrage will be ordered and submitted to a vote of females as well as males

The Internal Revenue Office

NEW YORK July 14 —The Tribune's Washington special says there is the best authority for the report that the Internal Revenue muddle was settled yesterday while Secretary Boutwell was at Long Branch, by the appointment of J W Douglass, Deputy Commissioner, to be Commissioner in place of Pleasanton. The appointment will be made public in a day or two. Pleasanton put an end yesterday to all conjectures as to his course. In regard to the reports current here, he said that he did not intend to resign because he believed he was right. He says he does not want a foreign mission and would not have one, and that he would do nothing to relieve Boutwell of any sensitiveness he may feel. If the President wants him to leave the Internal Revenue Bureau his successor must be named, for he will take no intimation

EASTERN STATES

Further about the Riot

NEW YORK July 14 —From early dawn yesterday the city has been unusually quiet. It is believed an effort will be made at the coroner's inquest to show that the troops fired needlessly and without orders. Inspector Walling, who will be a good witness on this point is of opinion that firing would have been necessary within ten minutes at least. Showers of bricks and stones were thrown from house tops and windows, while pistol shots were beginning to come thicker and faster every moment. The mob seemed to be gathering courage and strength, and it would soon have been absolutely necessary to commence firing. The investigation will be very thorough. It is doubtful whether an inquest can be commenced before the last part of next week. The Coroner also wishes the excitement to cool down somewhat before he begins. The grand jury will adjourn to day subject to a call from the District Attorney's office to investigate the riot, and Recorder Hackett will sit next week to try the cases of those arrested as rioters

It is said L L Carey, a well known leader of the Hibernian Societies, is to be indicted for conspiracy to create the riot. Carey's speeches to Irishmen in Prince Street Hall, on Monday night were of an inflammatory character, and the grand jury of the Court of Oyer and Terminer which is now in session, intends to find an indictment upon them. It is said Carey used his influence with the Mayor to have the Orange parade stopped, and that to effect this he circulated a report that thousands of Hibernians had armed themselves and would prevent the parade at any cost. The grand jury also intends to indict rioters caught firing at the procession for murder

Hoffman to be Thrown Overboard

CHICAGO July 14 —The Tribune's New York special says it is definitely ascertained that at a meeting of Tammany leaders this morning, it was resolved to throw Hoffman overboard. Words are inadequate to describe the bitterness and wrath of the Catholic Irish against him. A mass meeting of Irishmen has been called to denounce him. Among the leaders are General McMahon late Minister to Nicaragua, General Sweeney and John Mitchell

Democracy in Maine

[From the N Y Times]

For pure nonsense, the Maine Democracy may be backed against the field. The solemn mummery of the Ohio men was bad, but the vain common places of the Maine men are worse. Their platform is a tedious array of unmeaning platitudes and the speeches concerning it are bewildering in their ambitious confusion. They neither abide nor depart. Evidently they have heard the word of command but they are badly drilled and do not know how to obey it. They accept the "new departure" with the qualification that they be not called upon to stir. They reject repudiation with a saving clause that may be interpreted in favor of paying the bonds in greenbacks. They denounce a high protective tariff, but afford no insight into their conception of the principles on which it should be remodeled. They bewail the imperfections of the Civil Service, but they are not anxious to see them removed except by the further application of the rule of examinations adopted by the Democratic Party—a rule which remained a dead letter until a Republican Administration enforced it.

To explain this precious document we have the speech before the Convention of Mr William H Clifford, whom the World attempts to rescue from obscurity by calling him "a rising young Democrat." The explanation afforded by Mr Clifford is not satisfactory. He is too much puzzled himself. "Why," he cries, "why this barren pageant of any more Democratic Conventions in Maine?" We are but organizing for another defeat. Curious readers of his despairing oratory will wish he had answered his own question. "I am averse," he remarks, "to the mention of these subjects." We have not the heart to find fault with him but what was the use of starting a first class conundrum and then giving it up? It is useless to talk about what the Democracy have sacrificed for principle in times past. They have just thrown their past principles to the dogs, and their former fidelity to them is no excuse for present existence. It is no use, either, to explain why the Democracy were faithful in the past. They are faithful no longer. The Democracy in the words of Mr Clifford, "have followed their principles to their legitimate conclusions and were covered with obloquy and defeat." Now, to get rid of the obloquy and defeat they have abandoned their principles. Will Mr Clifford, or any other Democrat young or old, rising or sinking, be kind enough to tell us what the Democracy are going to do in the future, besides making up their minds to submit to any humiliation that an unprincipled scramble for office may impose upon them?

Report on the Holly Water Works

About a year ago the Chairman of the Committee on Water of the Kansas City Mo City Council addressed a letter to the Mayor of Peoria, Ill, asking information as to results of the trial of the Holly Water System which had been in use for one year in the latter city. The following reply was returned

Our Water Works have already lived down all opposition and I don't think there is a single individual in the city that would willingly dispense with them

We have disposed of all our hand and steam Fire Engines and find every hydrant is fully equal to a steamer for throwing water with the advantage of bringing it into play in one fourth of the time. We have been able to put out every fire that has occurred before getting fairly under headway. Our population when we commenced building the works was about 30 000. We now have eighteen miles of pipe, and will extend them four miles further this summer. Our people will not be satisfied until every street is supplied with water. Your city being much more compactly built will be able to supply double the population with the same amount of pipe that we can. Our works are not yet self-sustaining but in a very short time will be. Our plumbers are all kept constantly to work putting the water into the houses and are not able to keep up with the demand and not one half are supplied that want the water. Besides, in order to induce every one to take the water we deemed it good policy to put the rates very low for the first year which are not more than one third as high as Chicago or St Louis. We save in our Fire Department and in insurance more than enough to pay the interest on the cost and expense of running the works

If your people conclude to construct Water Works I hope they will adopt the Holly system. It has all the advantages of the old Reservoir plan, and a great many that it has not. When we concluded to adopt it probably two-thirds of our citizens were opposed to it and during the whole time we were constructing them, we were annoyed by a bitter opposition of all the old fogies, who are always afraid to try anything that is new but the working of them has fully vindicated their superiority and satisfied all parties. Hoping to hear that you have determined to adopt the Holly system of Water Works

I remain &c

POLITICAL NOTES

John Quincy Adams has written another political letter. He is indefatigable in his efforts to induce the Democratic party to throw away its old principles and take up new ones. But the worst of it is that the so called new arguments in which he would dress up his party and try to make it presentable are simply the cast off old clothes of "Radicalism"

The San Francisco Alta is amused by the astonishing performances of the great political acrobat Gov Haight. It says "He has now mounted on his improvised nag of anti subsidy and has started off in full career. His saddle bags are distended with subsidies and in his right hand he swings aloft the secret service fund. He drafted a Sunday law, and got elected the first time by pledging himself to sign a bill for its repeal. He approved seventeen subsidy bills and now claims re-election on the ground that he is opposed to subsidies"

During the last twenty months the national debt has decreased at an average rate of $5 856,589 23 per month. This is under Republican administration. During the same period the debt of New York City has increased at an average rate of $1 8[illegible],663 68. This is under Democratic administration. The debt per head in New York is now $[illegible] 15. The national debt per head is $54. Since December 1869 the decrease of the national debt has been $10 57. During the same period the increase of the debt of New York City has been $53 57 per head. Yet we are asked to introduce Democratic management in the national finances!

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 15, 1871

The "Monopoly" Party

The Republican Convention of California last month passed strong resolutions against the policy of county subsidies for railroads Mr Booth the Republican candidate for Governor has always been an opponent of this policy We do not stop here to discuss whether it may or may not be a good policy in some cases but it appears that the people of California have been so overtaxed and ridden by a railroad set that they propose to put a stop to the subsidy business at once Hence both parties are outspoken upon the matter

The Oregon Herald is quite indignant to find that the Republican party in California has taken this course, declares it insincere, and says that it has pronounced this opinion only after the subsidy policy has been made unpopular by the stand taken by the Democratic party against it These assertions challenge an examination of the record of the two parties in that State on this subject

The greatest single political power in California is the Sacramento Union That paper as all know, is Republican in its affiliations, though independent in its course To the Union more than to any other influence the present position of both parties in California on this subject is due It took up the subject five years ago and has been unceasing in its efforts against subsidies ever since It refused to support Gorham, the Republican candidate for Governor in 1867, believing him unsound on this question, and to this refusal his defeat was mainly due. Ever since then, Republican Conventions in the State have been careful to avoid the error fallen into when Gorham was nominated. Haight was elected and the Democrats became possessed of every branch of the State Government What of the Democratic record on subsidies in California during these four years of the rule of that party?

The statute book tells the story It is there written with a clearness that is beyond cavil Haight and his friends were blatant in their professions of hostility to subsidies in the canvass of 1867, yet no sooner had they obtained power than their Legislature began to pass subsidy bills and Haight in every case approved them In February, 1868, he approved an act providing for a subsidy in Los Angeles county In March of the same year he approved a subsidy act for the county of Yolo The next was one for the county of Solano Following right after was a grant of a vast area of tide lands on San Francisco Bay to the Terminal Central Pacific railway. Succeeding this was a subsidy to be paid by Contra Costa county On the 30th March, [illegible] Haight approved (a Democratic legislature having previously passed) an act [illegible] the Supervisors of Plumas county [illegible] without the formality of submitting the matter to the people, to meet at [illegible] of said county on the second [illegible] April 1868, then and there to take [illegible] to the capital stock of the Oro [illegible] Virginia City railroad, to the amount [illegible] bonds to run twenty years at [illegible] per cent per annum, $80,000 to be paid [illegible] the commencement of opera[illegible] the indebtedness thus created [illegible] were directed to levy a tax of [illegible] than sixty cents on each $100 of [illegible] property in said county " and to set [illegible] party per cent of all the foreign mining taxes This enactment provided [illegible] which would have aggregated [illegible] considerably more than one-third, [illegible] one-half as much as the total taxable property of Plumas county, which amounted [illegible] year 1867, to only $1,485,520

[illegible] the same day on which he approved this [illegible] 'anti subsidy' enactment Governor Haight signed another donating valuable overflowed and tide lands to the San Mateo Tannery Company This magnificent swindle, if had not been nipped in the bud by the Tide Land Commissioners, would have gouged the State out of property worth one or two millions

But the most objectionable act of all those passed by the Legislature of this "anti subsidy" party and approved by this "anti-subsidy" Governor, was one authorizing the Boards of Supervisors to submit to the people of their counties propositions to subsidize railroads to the extent of five per cent of the entire property of the several counties of the State This would cover subsidies to an extent of fifteen millions of dollars It still stands on the statute book, a monument of the sincerity of the 'anti subsidy' Democracy

The number of subsidy acts on the statute book of California, placed there by the present Democratic administration, is eighteen While this legislation was going on the Sacramento Union assisted by other Republican journals, was vigorously denouncing the policy A tremendous public sentiment was manifesting itself against the abuses which were being perpetrated Finally, two years afterwards, Gov Haight began to see that if he would save himself and his party he must make a stand against further subsidies Hence he vetoed the last two acts that were passed and on the strength of these vetoes he stands up as the great 'anti-subsidy' champion

This statement of incontrovertible facts will suffice to show the Herald just how much truth there is in the assertion that its party in California is the enemy of "monopolists "

The Bulletin continues to argue that the Orange demonstration in New York should have been prevented by the authorities It says "Mayor Hall s order commanded the Orangemen to desist from parade Had that order been obeyed there would have been no loss of life ' When the rebels seceded in 1861 they commanded us to let them alone It may be urged that, had this order been obeyed there would have been no loss of life But as this reasoning (which was employed at the time) did not justify the rebellion similar reasoning at this time will not justify the New York rioters. The sentiment of the whole country on this subject is unmistakable Mayor Hall s position was utterly untenable The demand that the Orange parade should be prohibited, because it was distasteful to a certain class, was entirely inadmissible It was quite as inadmissible as would be a demand that St Patrick's day should not be publicly celebrated, or that a Methodist Sunday school procession should not be permitted, because somebody might happen not to like the one or the other

The decrease in the collections of internal revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30 1871, as compared with collections of the preceding year, is $40,266,584 This affords some idea of the extent of reduction of national taxation under Republican policy

Comments on the Riot

The Catholic Sentinel of this city has the following remarks on the riot

For some time the excitement consequent upon the intended demonstration of Orangeism in New York and vicinity, to be held on the 12th inst, rose by degrees The avowed and evident intention of the Orangemen to make this year's demonstration more insulting and obnoxious to Catholic Irishmen than ever, raised an indignation amongst them, which Most Rev Archbishop McCloskey, assisted by his devoted clergy, could not allay The city and State authorities made every preparation to preserve the peace of the city but from late dispatches all was unavailing and blood was shed. Had Gov. Hoffman not interfered, the wise action of the city authorities, prohibiting the dangerous and peace-disturbing procession of the Orangemen, would have secured the peace of the city and saved the lives of those killed during the riot.

As we have already given our views on this affair we need not here state why we deem, and why the judgment of the country will deem the position taken by the Sentinel wholly inadmissible In the Sentinel's remarks there is a tone indicating that the writer feels that the Orange demonstration should have been prohibited because it was distasteful to the Irish Catholics Organs of the Catholic Church, we think, will make a mistake if they choose to regard this as a Catholic matter, and to insist that the parade should have been prohibited because a class of Catholics did not like it To take such a position is virtually to assume that there is one religious denomination among us which is entitled to special privileges,—a position which many Catholics we are sure, do not wish to assume We are quite certain that no lawful demonstration in any part of this country would be prohibited because it might be distasteful to English Methodists or Scotch Presbyterians Nor should any such demonstration be prohibited because Irish Catholics do not like it The Sentinel, we observe, in this same issue, publishes glowing accounts of Catholic demonstrations in different cities on the anniversary of the accession of the present Pope to the Papal throne Nobody molested these demonstrations, or thought of doing so Suppose that in some locality where Protestant denominational feeling ran high, notice had been given that the proposed Catholic demonstration on that day would not be permitted Suppose further that the authorities had forbidden it on the ground that it would certainly be attacked and bloodshed would ensue In this case would the Sentinel call the Catholic element "peace disturbing?" If men would learn to be just let them take these things home to themselves

The Crowning Infamy.

The New York Tribune is severe on Gov Hoffman for his tardiness in doing his duty, and charges that the riot is largely due to his want of decision and promptitude Probably there is much reason for this criticism But it will be observed that the Tammany Ring denounce him for doing his duty at last, and throw him overboard for not sustaining the shameful order of Mayor Hall Could anything more completely illustrate the utter subserviency of the Democratic leaders and politicians of New York to the lawless mob? In order to placate this mob and secure their votes in the future they condemn Gov. Hoffman for an act which the whole sentiment of the country applauds The infamy of this course rather exceeds anything manifested heretofore even by that party The mob that was put down by the military are a voting power over which Tammany feels that it must retain control; hence Gov Hoffman is sacrificed to appease their rage Perhaps on the low tactics of Democracy this was a dire necessity, but it is an incident which reveals how fearfully low Democratic tactics are It shows that the behests of the lawless elements of the city are a law unto the Democratic party So infamous an organization should be buried beneath the indignation of the American people.

The Democratic Era (East Portland) this week renews its objections to the "new departure" and ridicules those Democrats who manifest a willingness to "gulp down at once so large a piece of humble pie ' It says there is only a small portion of the party who 'are prepared to surrender their time honored principles, ' and censures such papers as the Herald which, "like the weak-kneed of Israel, hunger after the flesh pots of Egypt "

OREGON.

The Albany Democrat notes an astonishing amount of travel through that place by rail

On Yaquina Bay this summer there are two steamboats and the opposition makes fares low.

A tri weekly mail is carried from Corvallis to Yaquina Bay The contractor runs a hack and goes through in eight hours.

There is a strong feeling in favor of having the Siletz Reservation opened for settlement by the whites That project may about as well be given up

An effort is to be made to secure $50 000 to endow the Baptist College at McMinnville R C Kinney proposes to give $2,500, and W. T. Newby $1,000

The small lighthouse at the entrance of Yaquina Bay is nearly completed It is a model of neatness and finish. Two stories of it have been fitted up in good style as a residence for the keeper

The East Portland Era has been furnished by Superintendent Meacham with the following statistics of Indian men, women and children at the various reservations

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 15, 1871.

CITY.

CHAMBERS'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA —This work, for which Mr. E. May is now canvassing in this city, is one to which all literary men, no matter what profession or calling, would do well to give something more than casual attention It is a book which must be always exceedingly useful and convenient. It is not a book of trade, but of useful knowledge, it is what it is claimed to be—a dictionary of universal knowledge for the people. It is being issued from the publishing house of J B. Lippincott, Philadelphia, at the rate of about one volume a month, each volume containing over 800 pages with maps and engravings illustrative of the subjects under treatment. When completed the work will comprise 10 volumes, each elegantly and strongly bound in library style—the bindings varying to suit various tastes The matter of the work is handled with a view to convey instruction in a practical way, so that not only professional people, but all intelligent readers may understand it. The various subjects are so arranged in their order in the work as to make it an easy matter to refer to anything wanted At the same time that single facts or subjects are treated of separately, there are such references to correlative facts or subjects, as will enable the reader to go thoroughly through with any inquiry demand ... it is rather than a definition It would be difficult to suggest a means of condensing into a small library a greater variety and sum of knowledge than are furnished by this work Any one should examine it

HANDSOME TESTIMONIAL —Capt L S Crockett, of the bark Goodell, lately arrived from Hong Kong with Chinese passengers and cargo of rice, was yesterday presented by Sam Poy of the Wa Kee company, and other passengers, with a silk flag thirty feet long and fifteen feet wide made of the finest material The inscriptions on it are in Chinese characters—the first expressing their appreciation of friendship toward Capt Crockett, the second a similar expression to the officers of the bark, and the third, of the vessel commanding her as a staunch good boat and a fast sailer There were a considerable number of Chinese who were passengers, present when the flag was presented The whole affair —the visit to the vessel and the presentation of the flag—was a surprise to the Captain, but like a true American tar, he accepted the gift with thanks, and not to be outdone in politeness, he invited the whole crowd to take a collation with him, which they did We learn that the Wa Kee company are desirous of engaging the Goodell for a return trip to Hong Kong, but it is uncertain whether the Captain will engage as he does not wish to remain so long in port as might be necessary under such a charter

FRESCO PAINTING —Mr Charles Wiegand has recently had his barber shop beautifully touched up by a fresco painter who evidently is a master of his art, Mr Wm F Poidemann In the ceiling he has painted a handsome center piece surrounded with appropriate ornamentation The walls have cornice mouldings and the walls are worked so nicely shaded that a person who ... it would almost expect to feel the round ... surface. The panels contain various ... that appear exactly like carved work, standing out in high relief There are figures of statuary—busts and full figures—that are very fine, showing that ... skill there is added the genius of an artist. The effect of the whole is beautiful and wi hal so out of the usual style ... in this country as to be striking We ... that an artist so skillful should ... demand for his services in a community ... so much money is lavished in the gratification of taste

PASSENGERS FOR OREGON —The N. P T Co 's steamer Dr Jdamme, sailed from San Francisco for this port, yesterday The following is a list of the passengers L Lawrence L H Lawrence and wife, J Dougherty, wife and daughter, A J ..., W T Wood, Rev G W Sloane, Rev R J ..., Rev C W Shaw and family, Mrs J B ... and 4 children, Miss F Sommers, Miss Belt, ... C J Newcomb, Lieut O E Frohat, U S ..., C McMurry, Miss K Ryan, Miss T ..., Mrs W H Coburn, Wm Lane, A Labbe ..., Wm Allen, E Perrault, S Reed ..., E Perrault and 2 children, J Downing ..., Capt J E Wiley, W P Burke, wife ..., Mrs S C G... and 2 children, R ..., E H T Leopold, W S Goudy, W C Yan ..., E L Darragh, J Darrow, C Kane, C H ..., Wm Cerveline J M Reed, Dr C J Taft, ... Penny and 5 children, H A Quimby and ..., Jabez Tevis, F Cassin

BADLY SMASHED —Some days since, Mr. C W ..., member of Company No. 1, while ... to place the steamer of Company No 4 ... the sidewalk at Dr. Glisan's new building ... process of pumping the cellar out, had his hand badly jammed between the pole of the engine and the brick wall of the building The ... fingers were burst open, and it was ... amputation would be necessary to save ..., but we are pleased to learn that there is hope of saving both the fingers and the ...

CHURCH NOTICES.—Rev A E Fried ... will preach in the Norwegian language at ... Church to-morrow, at half past 3 P M

Rev W. H Meizse, Pastor of Hall Street M E Church, will preach to-morrow morning at 11 Subject, "Jacob at Bethel" He will preach again at 8 P. M. Subject, "Jacob at ..." The public are respectfully invited to attend.

LECTURE,—Dr. Lindsley, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church, announced on last Sunday that ... lecture on the coming Sunday—which ... to-morrow—by request upon "Commercial ...," This is a subject of great interest to the rising generation, as also to all interested directly or indirectly in business. The ability with which the Doctor handles his subject promises to make this an interesting lecture to all who attend.

ODD FELLOWS' MEETING.—Oregon Lodge No ... of Oregon City had a regular meeting Th s-day evening, at which were the present Grand ..., Grand Warden and two Past Grand ... of this jurisdiction, a Past Grand Master of California, and a number of visiting Past ... quite a notable gathering of dignitaries, for an ordinary subordinate Lodge meeting

DEPARTURE OF A SURVEYING PARTY —The party of civil engineers who arrived by the last steamer en route to Victoria, to survey an over land Dominion railway route, left this city yesterday morning for Victoria via Olympia. The party is prepared to not only make a topographical survey but also to make a geological examination of the country through which it may pass

REAL ESTATE JOURNAL.—We have received a copy of Stitzel & Upton's Real Estate Journal for July It is devoted almost wholly to descriptions of real property which they have in hand for sale. While city property is a little quiet just now, we are informed that there is an increase in the number of transfers in the country

... MEETINGS.—The Wallamet Society ... will hold a special meeting at 8 o'clock this evening, by order of the President

... Post No 1, G A. R, will hold a regular monthly meeting at 8 o'clock this evening, at their hall, corner of Morrison and First streets

STREET IMPROVEMENT —Alder street is about to have a plank roadway We notice that the timbers for it are distributed along the street for several blocks

WATER PIPE.—The P T Co 's steamer Senator took on board yesterday a lot of iron water pipes to be used at Salem

The foundation of the Scandinavian Church in East Portland has been laid and the ceremony of laying the corner stone will take place at an early day

The Annual Convocation of the Oregon and Washington Mission, Protestant Episcopal Church, will meet in Trinity Church, Portland on Thursday, August 31st 1871

At the Clear Creek camp-meeting, held over last Sabbath, Rev Bro Nickerson presiding there were several conversions, some of which were remarkable

A camp meeting, wonderful for the manifestations of the divine presence and power, was held by Rev H K Hines a few miles above Walla Walla, June 22 25 Over thirty persons united with the church

The Kalama Beacon has an idea that the Methodist Church burned down at Kalama on the 3d inst cannot be rebuilt very soon We hope it will be rebuilt at once The churches in Portland and East Portland will, we believe, lend substantial aid

Rev. Wm H Hillery, presiding elder, having labored with great zeal in connection with the M. E Zion Church for the past few months, returned to San Francisco on Thursday evening last The pulpit of this church will be supplied for the present by Rev H F Williams and W. G Jeans

[From the Catholic Sentinel]

The Sacrament of Confirmation was administered by Archbishop Blanchet in the Cathedral Church of this city, on last Sunday, before High Mass to 50 persons, principally children This is the largest number ever confirmed at one time in this Archdiocese

Rev Father Grassi, Superior of the Jesuit Missions in this northern country and missionary priest of St Joseph's Mission, Attanam, Yakima county, W T directed the retreat of the Sisters of the House of Providence, in Vancouver, last week Father Grassi will also direct the retreat of the Sisters of the Holy Names at the chapel of St Mary's Academy in this city

Rt Rev A M A Blanchet, D D, Bishop of Nesqualy, left Vancouver last Monday, the 10th inst, for St Joseph's Mission, in the Yakima valley, accompanied by Rev P Mans and Mr T B Broulet, for the purpose of administering Sacrament of Confirmation to a large number of Indians belonging to that mission His Lordship will also perform the dedication ceremony of the new church erected at that mission by its zealous and energetic pastor, Rev L N St Onge

EAST PORTLAND MATTERS

[From the Era]

The contractor for the J street bridge will commence operations on Monday next

Captain West of this city will soon call upon our citizens to solicit subscriptions for the purpose of enclosing the grounds of St David's Church with a durable fence

As will be at once discovered by the reader, the Era this week is printed upon a much heavier and finer quality of paper than heretofore This paper was manufactured expressly for our use by the Clackamas Paper Mills, and of itself is a sufficient evidence that the mill is capable of furnishing the trade wi h a quality of paper equally as good as can be manufactured by the California and Eastern mills

The citizens of our sister city across the creek are agitated on the water question, and the dailies have in consequence a fruitful theme to spread themselves on It is time that Portland should reform and "throw whisky to the dogs," and offer its citizens and visitors good, wholesome drink We in East Portland can look on and smile because we have plenty of fine, cool, sparkling springs back of the town site, and the East Portland Spring Water Company, of which Mr James B. Stephens is President, is now engaged in boring pipe and will introduce water into our city immediately There are springs on this side of the river of sufficient capacity to supply a city of 150 000 souls We would suggest that the Council of Portland investigate this source of supply. The springs are situated only two miles from the bank of the river, and owned by Mr James B Stephens.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees of the City of East Portland met at the Council Chamber Thursday evening, July 13th, President Loryea in the Chair

Present—Messrs Hawthorne, Heisle, Lane and Loryea.

Absent—Mr Tibbitts

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

The petition of George W Weidler, asking for an extension of time for the completion of the improvement of Second street, provided for in petitioner's contract with the city on the 19th of December, 1870, referred to Committee

The petition of George W Weidler, asking for the vacation of all those parts of A, B, C, E and F streets lying west of the west line of Second street to the Willamet river, referred to Committee

The petition of George W Weidler and others asking for the establishment of a grade for Fourth street from the center of A street to the north limits of said Fourth street, in Holladay's Addition, and for the improvement of the same, and representing that they are the owners of more than two thirds of the property adjacent to the improvement asked for referred to Committee

The following bills were approved and ordered paid Democratic Era, $18, N. H Lade, $15, Green Sheldon, $3 50, J B Lane, $6.

An ordinance declaring the probable cost of improving that part of Fourth street lying between the center line of A street and the south side of J street, assessing the same, and directing an entry in the docket of city liens, was passed

An ordinance to provide for the collection of delinquent taxes was read twice and referred to Committee on Ways and Means, with instructions to report the same complete

Whitcomb's Asthma Remedy is a sure cure

Our Skins are Valves,

And through millions of orifices oozes the transparent fluid which nature does not need for vital purposes This is a wise provision of Providence, but excessive perspiration is nevertheless extremely weakening During the heats of summer all hard workers perspire to an extent that is more or less debilitating They of all classes of the community require a wholesome invigorant at this season Let them not seek it in the liquors of the bar room they will not find it there A medicated stimulant, pure and unadulterated is what they need and among this class of remedies Hostetter's Stomach Bitters stand alone No valid plea can be urged against its use even by the genius of Temperance it ... for even the Maine law permits the sale of diffusive stimuli for medicinal purposes As a general renovating preparation, the Bitters has no equal anywhere But this is only one of the merits of this famous invigorator Its regulating properties give it an immense superiority over all the tonics of the Pharmacopœia In cases of chronic constipation it is the most useful and certain of all aperients It creates no violent commotion in the discharging organs but gently relieving them of their obstructions leaves them in a healthy vigorous condition It seems unnecessary to state in view of the mass of testimony as to its effects in dyspepsia that it is a permanent cure for that terrible but too general complaint

Where things that own not man's dominion dwell,
And mortal foot hath ne'er or rarely been;
To climb the trackless mountain all unseen,
With the wild flock that never needs a fold;
Alone o'er steeps and foaming fall to lean—
This is not solitude, 'tis but to hold
Converse with Nature's charms, and view her stores unroll'd.

But 'midst the crowd, the hum, the shock of men,
To hear, to see, to feel, and to possess,
To roam along the world's tired denizen,
With none who bless us, none whom we can bless,
Minions of splendor shrinking from distress!
None that, with kindred consciousness endued,
If we were not, would seem to smile the less
Of all that flattered, followed, sought, and sued;
This is to be alone; this solitude.

More blest the life of godly eremite,
Such as on lonely Athos may be seen
Watching at eve upon the giant height,
Which looks o'er waves so blue, skies so serene,
That he who there at such an hour hath been
Will wistful linger on that hallowed spot;
Then slowly tear him from the witching scene,
Sigh forth one wish that such had been his lot,
Then turn to hate a world he almost had forgot.
—"Childe Harold."

MY ELOPEMENT.

"Jim, you may take her into the house to-night."

The "her" referred to was the Ariel, one of the staunchest and fastest passenger engines that ever "jerked" a train, and "Jim" was my "stoker."

"All right, Jack," he answered, as I stepped down from the cab and started toward town.

It was just dark, of a cold, stormy November day, and if ever there was a happy man, it was myself, Jack Everett, seated, ten minutes later, in a warm dining-room, with plenty of time and a steaming supper at my disposal.

But this happiness was too great to be lasting. I was but half through with my onslaught upon "mine host's" cuisine, when my stoker, the best fellow that ever lived, only a little wild at times, came rushing into the room.

"I'll be blowed if I hain't half a mind to let you finish the job," said he. "I'd give half a dollar if I could eat like that."

And he stepped back and gazed with admiration at my display of talent for—eating when hungry.

"Come, come! what's up?" I asked, holding up the half of a biscuit, and preparing to follow up the success with the other half.

"Good heavens, Jack! how often do you eat?" he asked; but without giving me time to reply, he added, "But I've got to stop you now, for old Maylord is down to the station swearing like a marine because you got the start of him and got away before he saw you."

Maylord was the superintendent, and I knew something was wrong somewhere. [illegible] theless I replied: "Tell him I will be on after supper."

"That won't do, Jack. You've got to catch the express, and she's been gone twenty minutes now. We've got the engine out of the house, and all fired up. She'll be blowing by time we get back."

I will not say that I uttered any angry words, but something stuck very hard in my throat—half a biscuit, I suppose. I seized a [illegible] from the table and tossed it to Jim, who, I knew, had not been to supper, and then went for my hat and started.

I found Maylord pacing to and fro in the storm of snow and sleet, and growling like a hungry dog.

"Can you catch the express before she reaches town?" he asked hurriedly.

"I can try. But why not telegraph?"

"That's the mischief of it," he snarled. "The wires are down."

"Well, speak lively, for there is no time to throw away," said I, not remarkably good [illegible] at the prospect. Moreover, I had [illegible] particular liking for John Maylord, [illegible]

He whipped a letter from his pocket and [illegible] to me.

"Catch the train, Jack, and give the letter to Conductor Adams. Whatever he gives you bring back to me without delay."

Now there was something quite mysterious about this, but so far, I had no right to question, so I turned to Jim and asked him if he had taken water.

"Nary a drop, Jack."

"Never mind the water," cried Maylord; "[illegible] have enough to run down."

"Mr. Maylord, I am running this engine," replied [illegible] "I can't run it without water. [illegible] take my place."

[illegible] away with something very much like an oath, and I backed up to the tank.

Just as I stopped a veiled lady sprang lightly into the [illegible] "[illegible] let me go with you," she whispered, and then stepped further into the [illegible] that my fireman might not see her.

I was amazed at her sudden appearance and strange request; but before I could reply, she threw aside her veil, revealing the beautiful face of Nellie Maylord.

"Why, Miss Maylord; you cannot mean [illegible]—yet at the same time I [illegible] that she did—for, to tell the truth, [illegible] was in love with her. Of course [illegible] but myself, and I had hitherto [illegible] content with a smile or a word, which [illegible] gave me, notwithstanding her [illegible] frowns. To have her so near me, [illegible] with me, lifted me up to the top [illegible] bliss.

"[illegible] go, Mr. Everett," said she. "I [illegible] may seem strange to you, but when [illegible] danger, one must do strange things [illegible]."

"[illegible] danger?"

"[illegible] and I rely on you to save me."

As she said this, she lifted her lustrous [illegible], and gave me a look that surprised me out of my usual prudence. I re[illegible]

"[illegible] will protect you with my life, if need [illegible] love you better than my own."

I did not see her face then, for she had turned it away, and frightened at what I had [illegible], I hastened to ask her forgiveness.

"Tut! tut!" said she, placing her hand over my mouth. "If that is true you will surely let me go with you, for a fate worse than death awaits me here. Say yes."

And what else could I say?

All this took place while Jim was at the back end of the tender taking in water, and when he came forward to the cab, Nellie was [illegible] perched upon my seat. I gave him the hint to keep mum, and pulled open the throttle, and away we started on our wild night ride.

How the old Ariel flew over the iron parallels. Accustomed as I was to the noble engine, I yet sometimes quaked with sudden [illegible] and shut off the steam. I was thinking of Nellie then, and life never seemed so sweet before. Then, as the speed slackened, I would give my noble steed the rein again, and true to the touch, she would leap ahead like a thing of life—past houses, villages and towns, seen ahead for a second, and then far behind us. All the while I stood by Nellie, with one hand upon the throttle and the other upon the reversing lever, peering ahead upon the track illuminated by the Ariel's head-light.

I dared not look at Nellie, for all our lives depended upon my vigilance. I knew not what moment I might overtake the train; so I stood with her so near me, yet so far from me. Sometimes I spoke to her, and she would put her lips to my ear to reply. Again her little hand would clasp my arm as I sped over some rough piece of road that threatened to shake the iron monster to pieces, but a word would reassure her.

At length, in turning a curve, I saw the red light on the rear of the express, and so suddenly that had I not been on my guard there would have been one less passenger coach on the road; and who can tell where Jack Everett would have been? But I was prepared, and there was no danger.

My whistle was recognized; for there was not another like it on the road; and, no doubt, wondering what had sent the Ariel after them, they stopped for me.

"Well, I'm beat," exclaimed Charley Adams, the conductor. "What's in the wind now, Jack?"

For a reply I gave him the letter.

"W-h-e-w! Here, Jack, see what you make of it."

I held the missive up to light and read:

CONDUCTOR ADAMS: My daughter, Nellie Maylord, is running away from her home. I have reason to believe she is on your train. Send her back to me on the Ariel in charge of Everett. Use force if necessary. JOHN MAYLORD.

I think I gave a longer and more emphatic whistle than Charley.

"There is some mischief at the bottom of this," said I.

"Exactly, Jack; and if she were on my train, I would not use force to send her back to the old hunks—nary a bit. I would take her the other way, and keep mum."

"Then, Charley, I will put her aboard of your train, and send her along. She is in my cab now."

Charley gave vent to an exclamation more forcible than elegant, and after I told him how I came to have Nellie there, he wrote on the back of John Maylord's letter:

MIDWAY BETWEEN C— AND A—,
November 12, 11:30 P. M.

JOHN MAYLORD, ESQ.: The Ariel has overtaken me, and I have your communication. Miss Nellie Maylord is not on my train, nor has she been on it this trip. CHARLES ADAMS.

"There, Jack, that does not tell him that she will not be on. Now let us hustle, or I shall not make time."

The transfer was quickly made, but not without some regrets on my part, and I started back.

John Maylord was waiting for me.

"Where is she?" he asked, jumping into the cab.

I feigned ignorance, and passed him the letter.

Some prodigious oaths escaped from his lips, but as they were not directed to me, I had nothing to say. Then he hurriedly left me.

This was not the last of it, however. I was put through a course of questioning the next day that would have done credit to a criminal lawyer, and, if I do not mistake, John Maylord, Esq., went away none the wiser.

I met Charley Adams, too.

"Jack," said he, "you have won her everlasting gratitude, not to use a stronger term. It was a close rub, though. Old Maylord—he's only her uncle after all—was determined to marry her to old Silver, and as she had not lived quite long enough to be her own mistress—she was one day short—she couldn't do better than run away. The danger is all over now, and she can choose for herself. Better go up as soon as you can. Here is her address. And Jack, my boy, there are two things that you mustn't forget—that she has got a cool hundred thousand, and your humble servant, when the wedding comes off."

It is needless to say that I went 'up,' even at the risk of losing Ariel, and I had good success up there. While John Maylord was turning the adjacent country upside down in search of Nellie, I very quietly married her.

Perhaps John Maylord was mad when he heard of it, but he passed over Nellie's property without a murmur. But I didn't run the Ariel any more, and Nellie now has the love I once felt for my noble engine, and that other love besides. It is not more than she deserves.

Influence of Good Models.

Reading the achievements of great men, and listening to brilliant oratorical efforts, have an elevating influence. The talents and culture which are displayed, strikingly contrast with their own, and stimulate us to new resolves and efforts, to the end that we may grow out of our littleness into more perfect men and women. Thus it is that we leave a public hall, recalling talents unimproved, opportunities lost, and precious time squandered, and reflecting that we, too, might have held audiences spell-bound, as the orator of the evening, had we but willed it. Then follows the determination to commence work at once, and make up, if possible, for lost time. The lives of great men are perpetual reminders of what we may become while the immediate presence of those achieving greatness imparts a direct stimulus to us. When brought in contact with high-bred people, persons of gentle birth and refined, agreeable manners, we instinctively modify our own manners. From this we may know how beneficial it is to keep good models before us, and to seek as much as possible the society and companionship of our superiors, those whom we know will exert a healthy, elevating influence upon us. The character of children is very much determined by means of this kind. Those born in poverty, and living in squalor, have their ambition aroused by reading the labors and exploits of persons who have distinguished themselves in one way and another. Especially is this true in a Republic, where no caste or lineal distinctions confine people to the conditions [illegible] life in which they are born. Benjamin Franklin used to maintain that he was promoted when a lad to try and accomplish something in the world by reading Cotton Mather's E[illegible]s to do good. And Samuel Drew decl[illegible] that Franklin's example, in turn, anim[illegible] him to choose the life upon which he [illegible]tered. Smiles very truly observes tha[illegible] character and careers are, to a great extent, d[illegible] mined by the models around us. "We mo[illegible] ourselves unconsciously after the cha[illegible]ters, manners, habits, and opinions [illegible] se wh[illegible] are about us. Good rules may [illegible] much, but good models far more; for in the l[illegible] we have instruction in action—wisdom a[illegible] work. Good admonition and bad example only build with one hand to pull down with the other. Hence the vast importance of exercising great care in the selection of companions, especially in youth."
